RE: CCNE Accreditation Review-Opportunity for Third Party Comments

=====

On April 23, 24, 25, 2012, the Stony Brook University School of Nursing will seek initial accreditation of our Doctor of Nursing Practice (DNP) program and renewal of accreditation of our BS and MS programs from the Commission on Collegiate Nursing Education (CCNE), a nationally recognized accrediting agency for baccalaureate and graduate degree programs in nursing education.

As part of the accreditation process CCNE provides an opportunity for program constituents, such as students, alumni, faculty, employers and the practice community, to provide third party comments. Written comments must be received by CCNE 30 days prior to the scheduled visit (on or before March 23, 2012). Please include the name, address and telephone number of the person providing comments. Only signed comments will be accepted and these comments are shared with the evaluation team prior to the visit, but at no time during the review process are these comments shared with the program.

Please submit comments to:
